LAND ACKNOWLEDGEMENT

In the spirit of reconciliation, we acknowledge that Arts Commons is located on the traditional territories of the Blackfoot Confederacy (Siksika, Kainai, Piikani), the Tsuut'ina, the Iyarhe Nakoda (Chiniki, Goodstoney/Kichipwot, and Bearspaw First Nations). This territory is also the home of the Otipemisiwak Métis Government of the Métis Nation of Alberta, Districts 5 and 6. We thank these Nations for sharing this land with us and commit to being good stewards of this land, while we are here. We welcome all who work, live, and play in, as well as honour and celebrate this historic territory.

Message from the President and CEO

Thank you for being on this beautiful journey with us. It's hard to believe our centre has been around for almost 40 years. Much has changed since this building first opened its doors in 1985 and, like this city, we are growing and evolving. The Arts Commons Transformation and Olympic Plaza Transformation projects represent a bold new direction for our city which will make Calgary home to one of the largest cultural campuses in North America. But a wonderful new building and adjoining plaza would mean nothing if we weren't transforming on the inside as well as the outside.

In June of 2024, we became home to the largest philanthropic gift to the performing arts in Canadian history, thanks to a record-breaking gift of $75 million from Albertans Dave Werklund and the Werklund Family. As we take on the Werklund Centre name in Fall 2025 and allow ourselves to be inspired by the Werklund legacy, it is our aspiration that we grow to become a destination that goes beyond just the arts. What's more, we have an opportunity to create something new that embodies the shared values between Arts Commons and the Werklund family.

Together, we will put the needs of our growing city at the centre of our work. Arts and culture are a key part of any thriving cosmopolitan city, providing a gathering space that nurtures conversation, energizes participation, and supports both emotional and intellectual growth. Arts Commons, soon to be Werklund Centre, will build towards being a modern, civic-minded performing arts centre that blends arts, education, social enterprise, and city-building, and we can't wait to continue on this path with you.

WELCOME

Message from the VP of Programming

Our goal is to create conversations that you have told us you want to be part of. And with this in mind, I am thrilled to share my first full season of programming.

Collaboration is our north star. Partnering with the dynamic resident companies of Arts Commons— Alberta Theatre Projects, Calgary Philharmonic, Downstage, One Yellow Rabbit, and Theatre Calgary – connecting with local artists, community organizations, schools, and businesses, we're working on rooting all our choices in Calgary's unique identity. Collaboration taps us into the breadth of voices and experiences that make our city magnetic.

Dave Werklund and his family believe this too. In June, with the historic gift to the future of Calgary he said this:

“Picture this...a flywheel. At first, it is small and slow. As we push the flywheel clockwise, it starts to move and as more people join in, it gets larger and faster. That flywheel is the power of collaboration; where individual contributions coalesce to achieve something that might seem unattainable when tackled alone.”

This power of collaboration is evident in our expanded programming for the upcoming season. We are branching out, while honouring the deep roots of our very big tree and more people are joining in.

From the brilliant Michael Feinstein and the Carnegie Hall Ensemble in Because of You as part of BD&P World Stage, to discovering the mysteries of our gorgeous planet with the expertise of National Geographic Live, to our Special Presentations which include the great Jann Arden or the beloved Classic Albums live series, we have put together a season in the Jack Singer Concert Hall that is full of JOY, FUN and ADVENTURE.

And to this big tree we are adding new saplings, a denser forest with a series dedicated entirely to the flywheel effect: The Collaborations.

If you look closely, you will see collaborations that are happening with the wonderful companies within the Arts Commons ecosystem. They have so much artistry to share. If you like theatre you might consider seeing The Lehman Trilogy, a show we are presenting in collaboration with Theatre Calgary. If you loved Due South and phenomenal Calgary born and bred talent...maybe you will consider joining us at Alberta Theatre Projects where we co-present In Conversation with Paul Gross! Or what about a game-changing presentation celebrating Bob Marley's 80th birthday in A Tribute to Bob Marley co-presented with the Calgary Philharmonic! There are so many collaborations in our season, check them out in the brochure!

If you dream of a night where a local hip-hop artist performs alongside a classical string quartet and a comedian, then I encourage you to check out our TD Amplify Series or One Yellow Rabbit's legendary High Performance Rodeo, or both! The creative collisions that happen there are thrilling! Or if you envision a multimedia installation that combines digital art with live performance, check out the work of our RBC Emerging Visual Arts Program on view in our galleries, studio spaces, at our Art Parties and Scratch! Or how about phenomenal athletes who move like birds in the incredible Murmuration, a co-presentation with Springboard Dance happening during Chinook Blast in February at the Winsport Arena. These are the kinds of surprising and delightful experiences that can emerge when we embrace collaboration and cross-disciplinary exploration.

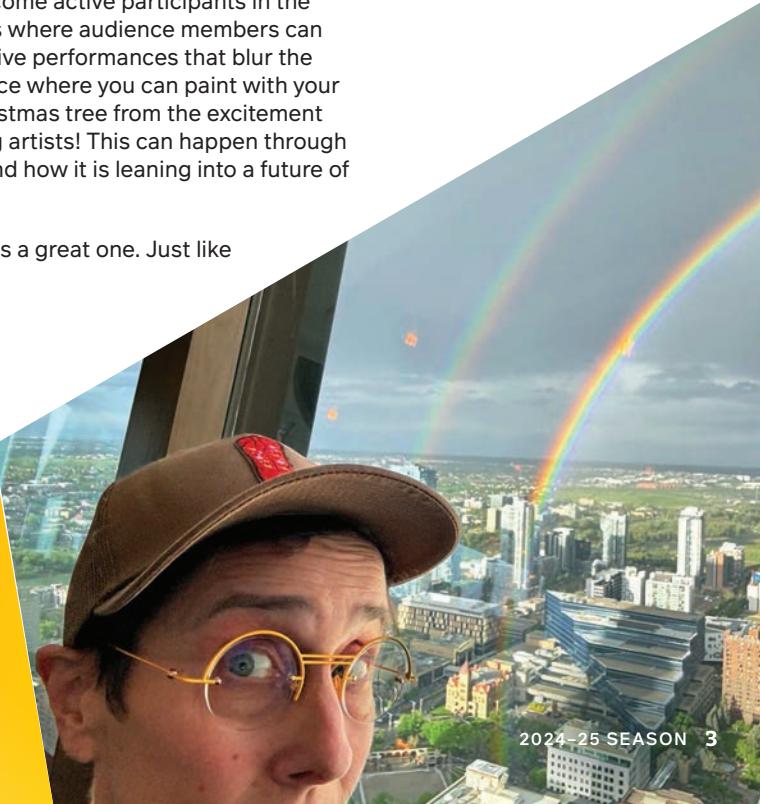

Plus, we're continuing to widen our support of artists with new collaborations like Radiate happening in partnership with AIRI and Marriott Residence Inn.

Our commitment to collaboration extends to how we engage with our audience. We're moving beyond the traditional model of passive spectatorship, inviting our community to become active participants in the artistic process. This might mean workshops where audience members can learn directly from visiting artists, or interactive performances that blur the line between performer and spectator. A place where you can paint with your kid, or where your kid can light up like a Christmas tree from the excitement of creating something new with our teaching artists! This can happen through the incredible work of our education team and how it is leaning into a future of Arts ReimaginED.

I really hope you will join the conversation. It's a great one. Just like the blue sky city we call home!

Each fan-favourite series delivers something for every arts lover in Calgary: iconic classic rock, the world's leading environmental voices, thought-provoking underground artists, and an eclectic mix of internationally renowned performers.

BD&P World Stage features a rich diversity of performances from music and dance to high-octane circus in the name of sharing something surprising and new with you, our Calgary community.

Classic Albums Live invites you to witness history-making albums like you've never experienced them before, expertly recreated by an all-Canadian cast of musicians live on stage, note for note, cut for cut.

National Geographic Live takes you into the field with the leading Explorers of National Geographic as they share their powerful, life-changing experiences accompanied by high resolution images and video projected on a screen that spans the Jack Singer Concert Hall at Arts Commons.

TD Amplify is fast becoming one of Calgary's favourite underground art events. Now in its seventh season, every TD Amplify show features a new roster of must-see local artists. Expect the unexpected with these lineups that span comedy, spoken word poetry, dance, all genres of music and more. And here's an insider tip: stick around for the secret after-party.

COLLABORATIONS

Arts Commons Presents is thrilled to feature a variety of collaborations in the 2024-25 season. We are partnering with the incredible resident companies of Arts Commons and other companies from across the city. A season filled with adventure!

Q&A with VP of Programming Sarah Garton Stanley

What excites you the most about collaborating with Alberta Theatre Projects, Calgary Philharmonic, Downstage, One Yellow Rabbit, and Theatre Calgary?

The Arts Commons ecosystem is truly unique in Canada. As one of the six resident companies, Arts Commons Presents gets to share creative and artistic space with some of the most innovative artists in North America. It's a thrilling environment. Collaborating with these companies on creative projects is one of the major perks of this storied place. Collaboration offers all our audiences the opportunity to learn more about the incredible work happening in rooms they might not normally visit and provides audiences with a broader spectrum of possibilities because we are all working together.

How do these collaborations come about?

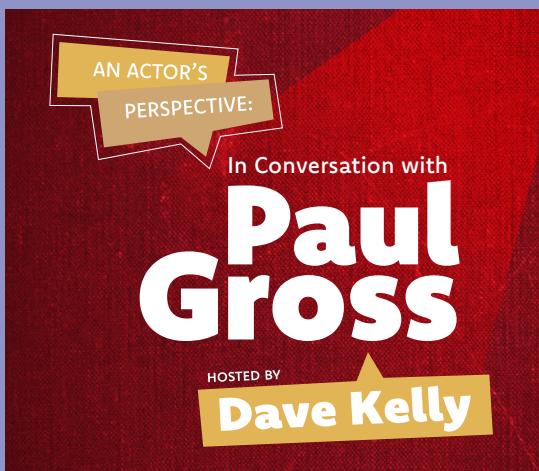

Sometimes it boils down to things like timing, space, or the size of production. But more often than not, collaboration is about sharing excitement with another company about a shared goal and wanting to work together to bring the goal to life. Some shows fit perfectly in the Jack Singer Concert Hall, while others are way better suited to the Big Secret Theatre. With such an incredible gathering space like Arts Commons, it makes sense to offer as many opportunities as possible to explore all that this building has to offer.

Why do you feel that this is an important creative direction for Arts Commons Presents?

We want to bring you the best. Working with a larger and incredibly talented pool of artists and companies - through collaboration - makes this all the more possible. Working together, across differences, sews together a gorgeous fabric for us all to enjoy.

How does making collaboration a priority for Arts Commons Presents allow for new, unique things to happen?

At Arts Commons we are always thinking about being in conversation with the citizens of Calgary. We want to respond to the changing city and offer new avenues of experience for all to participate in and enjoy. Arts Commons Presents shares this mission. Our signature subscription series are - in many ways - reflective of past and present collaborations. The work we do with National Geographic, for example, is a lively collaboration that continues to make each year a new and unique adventure for everyone. The opportunity to work with Jann Arden again reflects a wonderful collaborative spirit. Calgary loves Jann, we love Jann, and we'd like to believe that her returning for a second year means she loves us! Collaboration is quite simply an opportunity to stretch and grow, and quite often to surprise and delight!

Arts Commons
FOUNDERS CIRCLE

Join Founders Circle, support the Arts Commons ecosystem and gain access to exclusive artist events.

As a Founders Circle member, you help us sustain vibrant spaces where audiences, artists, and organizations thrive. Your support enriches our diverse programs for children, teachers, and aspiring artists, bolsters the resident companies that call Arts Commons home, and aids the hundreds of community organizations.

But that's not all. With your Founders Circle membership, you will gain access to exclusive behind-the-scenes events with visiting artists and our partner organizations, along with several other benefits.

“We love bringing our family to the behind the scenes events.

Our teenagers benefit from being exposed to people who are living their passions and following their hearts. It’s a powerful message to instill in them to show that there are so many options on how to live a meaningful life.”

Christina Marlett

The arts inspire, enlighten, and entertain. We are grateful to the following members of Founders Circle that support our work in performance, learning, and community engagement.

THANK YOU!

Arts Commons is where audiences, artists, and organizations experience excellence onstage and behind the scenes: in our many programs for children, teachers, and aspiring artists; for the companies that call Arts Commons home; and to the hundreds of community-based organizations that depend on our support and facilities. We wish to express our sincere appreciation to the following corporations, foundations, and government agencies that provide the support which makes it possible for Arts Commons to contribute to the social, economic, cultural, and intellectual life and well-being of our community.

PLAN YOUR VISIT

Health & Accessibility

Arts Commons wants you to get the most out of your visit, no matter the need.

This season, experience our new Sennheiser MobileConnect+ Assistive Listening System which provides clear, crisp sound in every Arts Commons venue over any Wi-Fi enabled device.

All National Geographic Live presentations now offer ASL Interpretation. Please contact our box office for the best seating options.

Breathe in, breathe out – you're experiencing the award-winning Air Filtration System at Arts Commons. With Ultraviolet Germicidal Irradiation (UVGI) and our MERV-15A air filters, the air leaves the building cleaner than it came in!

To learn more about how we're making Arts Commons more accessible for all, visit artscommons.ca/accessibility.

Make a Night of It

Dine and drink in the city's best culinary destinations, many only steps away from Arts Commons.

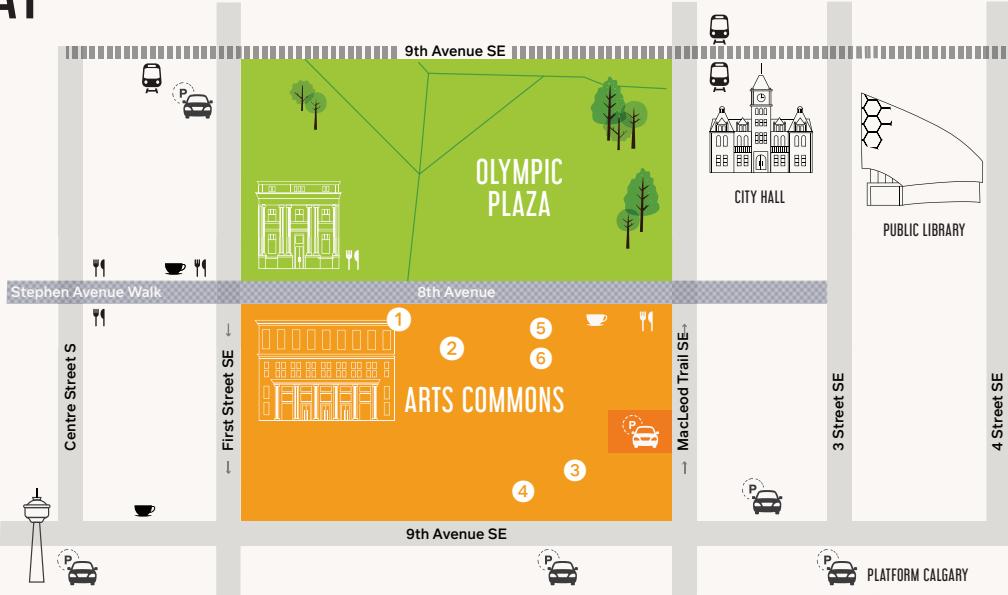

Stroll down historic Stephen Avenue or along the Bow and Elbow Rivers nearby.

Take in a free pre-show lobby performance by local musicians.

Tour our visual and media art galleries throughout the building, all free and open to the public.
